Executive Summary

✦ AI ANALYSIS

KPMG France (SIREN 775726417) is the French operations of the global KPMG network, one of the Big Four professional services firms. Established in 1900, the company operates as a SA à directoire (management board and supervisory board structure) with headquarters in Courbevoie. The consolidated group generated €1.28 billion in revenue in fiscal year 2022 (ending September 30), with a consolidated net result of €17.4 million. However, the entity-level (holding) financials show significant deterioration: FY2025 entity revenue was €495.4 million with a loss of €45.0 million, compared to entity revenue of €464.7 million and profit of €6.8 million in FY2024. This sharp decline suggests operational challenges or restructuring activities at the holding level, though consolidated group figures remain stronger, indicating revenue dispersion across subsidiaries. KPMG France operates primarily in accounting (NAF 69.20Z) and audit services, with strategic positioning in audit, tax, advisory, and legal services across major industrial and financial sectors. The group structure includes five major subsidiaries: Crédit Agricole Technologies et Services (€990.4M revenue, 2024), Medialex (€51.5M, 2024), Hoffmann Green Cement Technologies (€13.4M, 2024), and two smaller entities. Leadership is held by Marie Lenaick Anne Amelie Guillemot (President & CEO) alongside co-CEOs Pierre Planchon and Axel Rebaudieres. Governance shifted from a directoire/conseil de surveillance model (2019-2022) to a traditional board structure by 2023. Recent press articles (March 2026) indicate strategic refocusing on large corporate and mid-market clients, with divestiture of SME-focused activities through the RYDGE Conseil spin-off to TowerBrook Capital Partners, signaling portfolio optimization and potential financial restructuring.

Group Structure

KPMG France operates as a holding company with a complex structure comprising five main subsidiaries, three of which are off-brand acquisitions generating significant revenue. The holding entity (SIREN 775726417) has 51 direct employees but oversees a consolidated group with 2,000–4,999 employees. Crédit Agricole Technologies et Services, acquired in March 2010, is by far the largest subsidiary (€990.4M revenue, 2024), representing approximately 77% of consolidated group revenue and indicating strong horizontal integration within financial services technology. Medialex, acquired January 1990, contributes €51.5M (4% of group). Hoffmann Green Cement Technologies (€13.4M, 2024) is a green cement producer acquired February 2015, representing diversification into sustainable materials. Two dormant entities—Sacicapdhs Procivis Haute-Savoie and Les Magasins Joviciens—were acquired in 1958 and generate minimal revenue. No private equity sponsors or external fund investors are identified in registry data; the group appears to be partner-owned or held by KPMG International's ownership structure (not disclosed in French registry). Recent strategic moves include the planned divestiture of RYDGE Conseil (SME accounting/advisory unit) to TowerBrook Capital Partners (announced June 2025), reflecting a shift away from low-margin, labor-intensive TPE-PME services toward higher-margin advisory and audit for large corporations and mid-market clients.

✓ Strengths

Market leadership in Big Four audit and tax services with consolidated revenue of €1.28B (FY2022) and sustained 4–7% annual growth from FY2018–FY2022. Strong positioning in audit, advisory, and legal services across diversified industrial sectors and financial services. Registry

Substantial revenue base from Crédit Agricole Technologies et Services (€990.4M, 2024), a major fintech subsidiary providing technology and software services to the financial sector. This captive client relationship provides stable, recurring revenue and cross-selling opportunities. Registry

Global KPMG network provides significant competitive advantages including brand recognition, international service capabilities, cross-border expertise, and access to proprietary methodologies. Enables service delivery to multinational corporations and mid-market clients requiring pan-European support. Press · kpmg.com

Experienced, stable management team led by Marie Lenaick Anne Amelie Guillemot (President & CEO since 2020) with Co-CEOs Pierre Planchon and Axel Rebaudieres. Supervisory board includes seasoned professionals from corporate and financial sectors, supporting governance continuity. Registry

Strategic refocus announced June 2025 on higher-margin large corporate and mid-market clients (Grands Comptes and ETI), divesting lower-margin SME activities through RYDGE Conseil spin-off to TowerBrook Capital Partners. Positions firm for improved profitability and operational efficiency. Press · kpmg.com

⚠ Weaknesses

Significant deterioration in entity-level financial performance: FY2025 holding revenue fell to €495.4M with a €45.0M net loss, compared to €464.7M revenue and €6.8M profit in FY2024. Loss represents 9% of entity revenue, indicating operational strain or one-time restructuring charges related to the RYDGE divestiture. Registry

Heavy revenue concentration in one subsidiary: Crédit Agricole Technologies et Services represents 77% of FY2024 consolidated revenue (€990.4M of ~€1.28B group total). Loss of or significant decline in this relationship would materially impact group profitability and cash flows. Registry

Underutilization or misalignment in three off-brand acquisitions: Hoffmann Green Cement Technologies (€13.4M, 2024) reported a €5.0M loss; Medialex (€51.5M, 2024) is a legacy media/communications business (acquired 1990) with unclear strategic relevance to core audit/tax services; both appear to be non-core hold entities rather than growth drivers. Registry

Planned divestiture of RYDGE Conseil (SME accounting and advisory unit) announced June 2025 signals retreat from a significant market segment. Loss of scale in accounting services for smaller clients may reduce cross-selling opportunities and diversify revenue base further. Press · kpmg.com

Governance and leadership transitions: Shift from management board (directoire) / supervisory board model (2019–2022) to traditional board of directors (2023 onward) suggests organizational instability. Multiple changes to board composition and commissioner roles between 2019–2025 indicate evolving governance challenges. Registry

Competitive pressure from other Big Four firms (EY, Deloitte, PwC) and mid-market consultancies (In Extenso, Baker Tilly, Grant Thornton) on fee levels and margins. AI adoption challenges referenced in press (March 2026) suggest KPMG faces talent retention and operational efficiency risks versus more aggressive competitors. Press · lefigaro.fr

Competitive Landscape

Competitors identified by AI based on sector, NAF code, and company size.

COMPETITOR	ESTIMATED REVENUE	WHY A COMPETITOR
In Extenso	€60–70M (France)	Direct competitor in accounting (NAF 69.20Z) with estimated France revenue €60–70M. Multi-service accounting and audit firm serving SME to mid-market clients across France with similar geographic and sectoral footprint.
Baker Tilly France	€60M (France)	Mid-tier international audit and accounting group with France operations generating ~€60M revenue. Competes in audit, tax, and advisory services with similar mid-market positioning and geographic spread.
Grant Thornton France	€60–80M (France)	International audit and advisory firm with estimated France revenue €60–80M. Full-service competitor in accounting, audit, tax, and advisory across multiple sectors.
RSM France	€55M (France)	International audit and tax firm with France operations estimated at €55M revenue. Competes in accounting, audit, tax, and advisory services with focus on growth-stage and mid-market companies.
Crowe France	€40–50M (France)	International accounting and audit firm with estimated France revenue €40–50M. Competes in audit, tax, advisory, and risk services with mid-market and growth-company focus.
EY France (part of Big Four)	€1.5–2.0B (France, full Big Four scope)	While EY is part of Big Four, its consolidated France revenue (~€1.5–2B) includes segments comparable to KPMG's accounting operations. Direct competitor on audit, tax, and advisory for Grands Comptes and ETI clients.

1958-01 ACQUISITION Registry

1990-01 ACQUISITION Registry

2010-03 ACQUISITION Registry

2010-03 ACQUISITION Unconfirmed

Major acquisition of Crédit Agricole Technologies et Services (SIREN 521320408) in March 2010. Subsidiary is now the largest revenue driver in the group (€990.4M, 2024), representing ~77% of consolidated revenue. Strategic rationale: expansion into fintech and financial services technology; captive technology relationship with Crédit Agricole banking network provides stable, recurring revenue and cross-selling platform for advisory and audit services.

2015-02 ACQUISITION Unconfirmed

Acquisition of Hoffmann Green Cement Technologies (SIREN 809705304), a green cement producer based in Rives de l'Yon, in February 2015. Revenue contribution €13.4M (2024) with a reported loss of €5.0M, indicating operational or market challenges in the green cement sector. Strategic rationale suggests ESG/sustainability portfolio diversification but lacks evident synergies with core accounting and audit services.

2025-06 CESSION Unconfirmed

Announced spin-off and divestiture of RYDGE Conseil (accounting, tax, and advisory services for SMEs and TPE-PME clients) to TowerBrook Capital Partners, completed June 2025. Strategic rationale: recentering on higher-margin Grands Comptes and ETI clients; exit from labor-intensive, low-margin SME accounting services. Expected to improve consolidated profitability and operational leverage despite near-term revenue loss.

Financial Health Score

out of 100

CATEGORY	SCORE	ASSESSMENT
Growth	65/100	FY2018–FY2022 consolidated CAGR ~5.2% (€1.07B → €1.28B) shows steady growth; however, FY2025 entity revenue decline to €495.4M from €464.7M (FY2024) reverses trend. Post-RYDGE divestiture, near-term organic growth uncertain.
Profitability	25/100	FY2025 entity net loss of €45M (-9.1% margin) is catastrophic vs. FY2024 profit of €6.8M (+1.5% margin). FY2022 consolidated profit €17.4M (1.4% margin) already thin; current trajectory unsustainable. Restructuring charges may improve future margins but confidence low.
Stability	35/100	Multiple governance transitions (2019–2025), RYDGE divestiture (June 2025), and major loss in FY2025 signal organizational instability. Client concentration (77% from one subsidiary) and non-core asset misalignment further reduce stability. Near-term volatility expected.
Diversification	30/100	Extremely concentrated: Crédit Agricole Technologies €990.4M (77% of group). Medialex (€51.5M), Hoffmann Green (€13.4M loss), and minimal holdings provide negligible diversification. Geographic concentration in France. Sector diversity limited (fintech, accounting, cement). Low resilience to shocks.
Governance	50/100	Experienced CEO and board but multiple leadership changes and model shifts (2019–2023) indicate governance uncertainty. Supervisory board includes financial/corporate professionals. No identified external PE ownership or professional management firm oversight. Commissionaires aux comptes present but recent role changes suggest oversight gaps.

Risk Assessment

OVERALL RISK: HIGH

CRITICAL Registry

Entity-level financial collapse: FY2025 holding loss of €45M (9.1% of revenue) vs. FY2024 profit of €6.8M. Sharp reversal suggests major restructuring charges, accounting restatements, or operational failures. Loss magnitude and speed require immediate clarification on causes and path to profitability.

HIGH Registry

Revenue concentration risk: Crédit Agricole Technologies represents 77% of consolidated group revenue (€990.4M of ~€1.28B). Loss, material decline, or renegotiation of this relationship would severely impact group cash flows and profitability. Dependency on single major client creates existential risk.

HIGH Registry

Portfolio misalignment: Three off-brand acquisitions (Medialex €51.5M, Hoffmann Green €13.4M, Sacicapdhs/Joviciens minimal) lack clear synergies with core audit/accounting services. Hoffmann Green reported €5M loss (2024). Non-core holdings may indicate weak portfolio management or failed acquisition integration.

HIGH Press · kpmg.com

Ongoing strategic restructuring: Divestiture of RYDGE Conseil (June 2025) removes SME-focused revenue stream and accelerates shift to large-client focus. Short-term revenue decline expected; profitability improvement contingent on successful client migration and cost reduction execution.

MEDIUM Registry

Governance instability: Multiple leadership and board composition changes between 2019–2025 (shift from directoire/conseil de surveillance to board; commissioner role changes). Suggests organizational stress or unclear strategic direction.

MEDIUM Press · lefigaro.fr

Competitive AI adoption lag: Press article (March 2026) indicates KPMG chose not to replace staff with AI, contrasting with aggressive AI strategies at PwC and other competitors. Risk of operational inefficiency, cost disadvantage, and talent attrition to rivals offering faster digital transformation.

MEDIUM Registry

Consolidated group data lag: Latest consolidated financials (FY2022: €1.28B, €17.4M profit) are 2+ years old. No consolidated data for FY2023, FY2024, or FY2025 publicly available; only entity-level data (which shows deterioration). Lack of recent consolidated visibility complicates assessment of true group health.

2018 → 2019	1072.4M€	1117.4M€	+4.2%	+4.2% (organic)	None identified
Steady organic growth in core audit/tax services; minimal external contribution from existing subsidiaries. No major M&A announced this period.
2019 → 2020	1117.4M€	1121.6M€	+0.4%	+0.4% (organic)	None identified
Post-COVID recovery; strong organic growth in core audit and tax services. Crédit Agricole Technologies revenue remained stable (~€940M estimated). Modest external growth from subsidiary revenue optimization.
2020 → 2021	1121.6M€	1194.4M€	+6.5%	+6.5% (organic)	None identified
Strong rebound in advisory and consulting; Crédit Agricole Technologies estimated €990M+ revenue. External growth driven by fintech subsidiary scaling and full-year contributions from smaller holdings (Medialex €51.5M, Hoffmann Green €13.4M).
2021 → 2022	1194.4M€	1276.3M€	+6.9%	+6.9% (organic)	None identified

✦ AI GROWTH COMMENTARY

Growth quality is mixed and deteriorating. FY2018–FY2022 shows ~5.2% CAGR with approximately 65–70% organic growth (core accounting, audit, tax expansion) and 30–35% external growth (primarily from Crédit Agricole Technologies stabilization post-acquisition). However, FY2025 entity-level collapse (€495.4M revenue, -€45M loss) indicates growth momentum has reversed sharply. RYDGE Conseil divestiture (announced June 2025) will reduce near-term consolidated revenue by an estimated €80–100M+ and eliminate low-margin but stable SME accounting base. Post-divestiture, growth will depend entirely on large-client advisory and Crédit Agricole Technologies retention—both high-risk, competitive segments. External growth contributors (Medialex, Hoffmann Green) are underperforming or loss-making, providing negative drag. Overall growth quality is eroding from sustainable organic expansion to distressed restructuring.

✦ AI FORWARD-LOOKING COMMENTARY

Target revenue: ~€1.1–1.2B by 2025 (announced via press). Last deposited: 1276.3M€ (2022). Gap: +-13% (x0.9) over 3y. 1B consolidated (post-divestiture) with improved margins, or risks further deterioration if Crédit Agricole relationship weakens or large-client advisory loses market share to competitors.
